Dedication

Rev. Edward C. Dunn

We, the Class of 1963, dedicate this yearbook to Father Dunn in great appreciation for the love, guidance, and prayers he has so heartily bestowed upon us during our four years at Calvert. Through his many roles as priest, teacher, and friend, we all feel a closer and more perfect union with Christ. For these reasons and many others, we dedicate this Calvertana to Father Dunn.

Thanks, Mom and Dad

During our four years at Calvert, we seniors have been privileged to receive a well-rounded education. Our religious training has provided us with a background vital to our everyday living. In all, we have been prepared to meet the challenges of the ever-changing times.

Throughout this difficult period in our lives, when we were beginning to make an effort to attain a part of our many childhood ambitions, two people stood behind us, always ready to lend a helping hand. To them goes our deepest appreciation for all the material gifts they have given us. Most of all, though, we want to thank them for the love, the understanding, and the advice they have given to help us along in our most trying years.

For these reasons, we wish to reserve this page for you — our parents. Each time you look at it, we hope you will remember that, even though we may not always seem appreciative, we are indeed thankful for all you have given us. Lastly, we sincerely pray that God will shower His graces and blessings on you always.

POPE JOHN XXIII

Vatican Council

As the second Vatican Council of the Roman Catholic Church was opened on October 11, 1962, the students of Calvert were among millions of people all over the world to witness "the greatest religious event of the twentieth century." Pope John XXIII undertook a tremendous task when he called for this Council three years ago. Just before it convened, the Pope showed his dependence on God by saying:

"I do what the Lord suggests to me, whether it be a council one day, a synod another day, or still another day a social encyclical or some other act of the teaching power. . .

And I do this with great serenity."

Bishop's Anniversary Commemorated

THE MOST REVEREND
GEORGE J. REHRING, S.T.D.
Bishop of Toledo

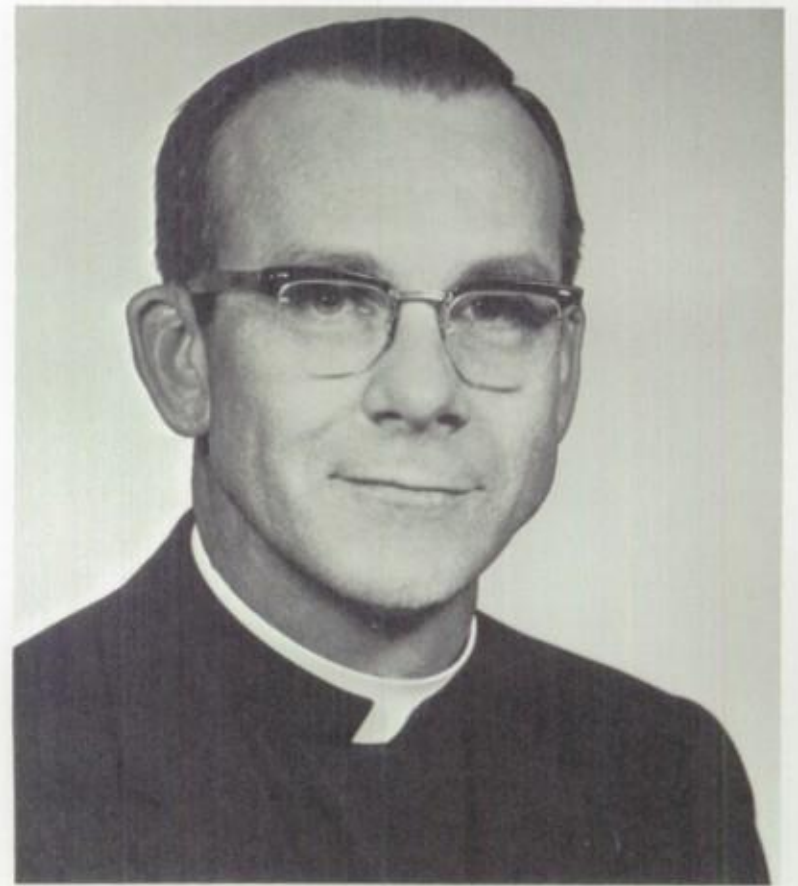

Bishop George J. Rehring, delegate to the Ecumenical Council from the Toledo diocese, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his episcopal consecration on September 30, 1962. Since his past twelve years have been spent in Toledo, many Calvert students have come in contact with the Bishop at Confirmation and on other occasions.

In commemorating the Ecumenical Council in the 37th volume of the Calvertana, the student body sincerely prays that God will grant all graces needed for the success of the Council and that He will shower His blessings upon our Bishop who represents us at the Council.

Serving an inner need as well as earning money for the Junior-Senior Prom, juniors work in the concession stand at basketball and football games.

Co-operation, Enthusiasm, Work

Hard at work planning their class party, the juniors put forth much effort and enthusiasm to make sure it's a success.

Juniors are being informed about future work on Calvertana and Calvert News by Jean Betz and Dave Nevius, editors-in-chief of the two publications.

Go Hand in Hand

During the football season active minds are put to work designing different kinds of tallies for classmates to wear.

Clubs Aid in Learning, Leadership

For students looking ahead to the teaching profession, FTA provides opportunities to learn school procedure and child psychology. Officers are Louise Kerschner, Marcia Kasza, Susan Dendinger, and Jean Betz. Sister Jeanne Marie is the moderator.

At Spanish club meetings members study the historical and cultural background of Spain and Latin-American countries. Enjoying Mexico's treasures are officers Richard Talley, Ann O'Neill, Mark Daniel, Margaret Perna, and Jeanne M. Brown. Sister M. Emmanuel and Sister M. Scholastica are moderators.

Religion Is the Foundation for

Margaret Gase and Frederick Shelt commemorate the school's consecration to the Sacred Heart. Every October the entire student body reconsecrates itself and its works to the Sacred Heart.

Senior boys in Father Dunn's religion class take part in an active discussion concerning the application of Christian principles to the lives that they must very

The religious training received at Calvert is essential to the welfare of each and every student. The freshman student acquires a more thorough explanation of the greatest and most perfect sacrifice, the Mass. The religion class in the sophomore year stresses the necessity of practicing the virtues. A profound comprehension of the Church's history is one of the goals that the junior student hopes to gain through his study of the course. The three states of life, the religious, the married, and the single, are explained and discussed in the senior course. As a result of these studies, each student realizes to a fuller extent how significant religion is in his life so that he may grow spiritually to be an exemplary man or woman. He learns that religion is the foundation upon which he builds his life.

The Reverend James Say helps Kathleen Kirian in some decision regarding the future. College, training school, marriage and religious life can be discussed, freely with the guidance counselor.

Students Train

A commercial course enables the student to prepare himself for his future position in the business world. Each business course plays a vital role in this preparation. The office practice course aids the student in mastering office skills, acquaints him with office machines, teaches him basic filing systems and essential personal qualities. Typewriting develops skill in operating the typewriter, following directions and handling material without loss of time. Integrating typewriting skills and knowledge in order to produce usable copy rapidly is the main purpose of typewriting. Proprietorship and partnership are the basic principles of bookkeeping, in which the student learns to keep systematic records of business transactions. These courses when grasped properly contain the secrets of a successful business career.

Basic fundamentals that are essential in acquiring bookkeeping knowledge are being explained to the class by Mary Kay Boes, using a balance sheet diagram.

Office practice class finds several students busily working on various machines, including IBM electric typewriters and Monroe educators.

Mechanical drawing teaches the fundamentals of drawing, along with the mechanics. Its aim is to prepare students for advanced drawing. This course is involved with teaching the central theory of shape description in an effort to prepare those taking it to become employed as draftsmen. Art offers to gifted students training in art principles, drawing, painting, advertising art, and crafts.

The use of the slide rule is demonstrated by John Ewing in advanced algebra.

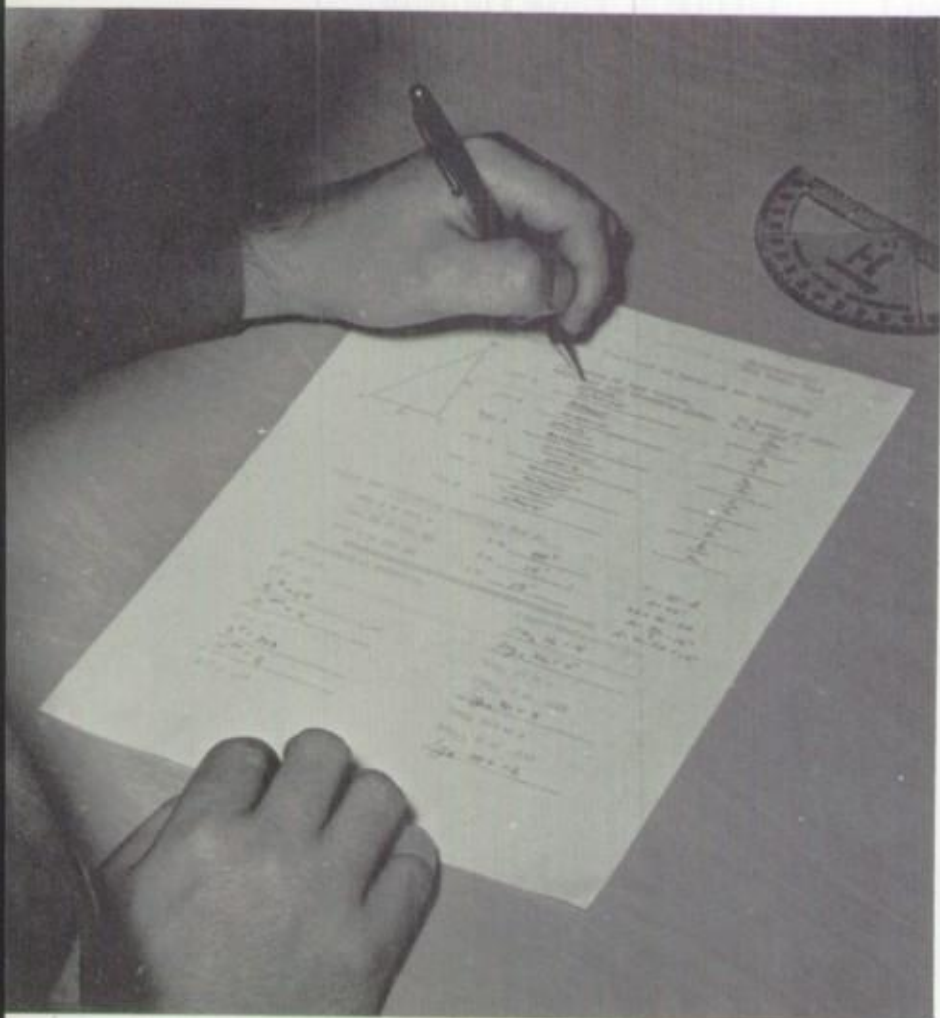

The basic fundamentals of math are studied through the various mathematical courses given in a four year period. First year students taking business arithmetic learn the basic principles of arithmetic applied to everyday business activities. Also offered to freshmen is algebra, which develops the pupil's power to think and to work in a systematic manner. Plane geometry for second year students gives understanding and experience in building a logical system of thought. While learning to use correct reasoning in solving geometric problems, the student finds it helps to improve thinking habits. For the more advanced students of math, trigonometry is offered. Through this course the seniors attain necessary factual background and a development of their powers of analysis. Solid geometry, which is offered in the second semester of the senior math class, is supplemented with an introduction to modern mathematics.

Pointing to a drawing of Francois Viete by Paul Esselman, Kenneth Sheffer tells the life story of this famous mathematician to a first year algebra class.

A trigonometry student diligently works to complete a test on the function of acute angles.

English and Foreign Languages

Language courses offer the student fundamental English as well as the cultural background and conversational ability of foreign languages. During the four year English course students are given the opportunity to organize their ideas and express themselves effectively and at the same time acquire a deep appreciation of the creative works of others. The Spanish and Latin courses open to the students new fields of learning totally different from their spoken English and at the same time provide a deep understanding of the traditions and customs of the various countries.

Panel discussions on current topics are a major speech activity. Here panelists Joann Ley, Jane Winterhalter, Steven Brown, and Ronald Berry listen to Beth Borer as she discusses the purpose and organization of the Ecumenical Council.

Second year Latin students are studying exercises from Quomodo Dicitur?, which contains familiar phrases of daily life.

Use of the tape recorder and the assistance of extra books help second year Spanish students Larry Stanton, Edward Carp and Harlin Kuhn master the language.

History

The social studies program offered at Calvert gives the students an opportunity to study the many different periods of history as well as types of government. Freshmen are offered world history which covers the period before written records to the present day. In American history the juniors find that keeping a history notebook is a necessity for reviewing past events. World geography keeps the seniors busy working at their study guides. A required course for seniors is American government. In this course the students cover current events, different branches of American government, and Communism.

Here Frederick Shelt is reviewing and explaining the progress of the Civil War to the world history class.

The globe plays an important role in the world geography class. Lawrence Reinhart is pointing out some crucial spot on the globe while Theresa Swope listens attentively.

Of History and Government

In American government, the seniors prepare and hold many debates, as in the U.N. Here Michael Roberts leads a discussion on the Cuban crisis.

Kathleen Newman and Gregory Seemuth are explaining to the class the important role that the Mississippi River played in American history.

Boosters' Project Is Completed

The new fieldhouse on Charlotte Street.

The Calvert Fieldhouse, which will be used for baseball, track, and football, is now completed. The Calvert Boosters took on the construction of this building as an addition to their already long list of benefits to the school, athletic teams, and band.

The money needed for the building was raised by various fundraising activities such as fish dinners, monthly raffles, and car washes. A considerable amount of the cost was also defrayed by cash donations.

Alumni Make Annual Report

James Wagner
President

Activities for the year 1962-'63 began June 3, 1962, when the Rev. Edward C. Dunn offered a Mass at the Ursuline Chapel for the living and deceased members of the Alumni Association.

Later in the morning a breakfast was held honoring the class of 1938 on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation. In the afternoon the annual reunion was held at Calvert with many members of the alumni and their families attending. Officers elected for the coming year were: James Wagner, President, Robert Haefling, Vice-President, Mrs. Bernard Tiell, Secretary, Mrs. John Lutz, Treasurer.

Social activities for the year included the summer dance which was held at Meadowbrook Park August 25. Over 250 alumni and their guests attended. Many of the alumni also enjoyed the "Sweetheart Ball" which was held at the K of C Ballroom February 16.

In addition to these events the Alumni Association helped arrange for a speaker from a local industry who presented some requirements for employment and challenged the upper classmen to increase their ambitions.

This year the Association again helped the Calvert library with a donation for new books and other needed items. Other miscellaneous activities in all realms were observed.

In closing, the alumni officers wish to thank everyone for their fine support. Special thanks go to Father Dunn and Sister Mary Charlotte for their advice and encouragement and the class secretaries who have been so generous with their time during the past eight years.
